PRESIDENT WALTER E. CLARK

OUR UNIVERSITY—MAY IT LIVE FOREVER!

THE University's first fifty years! And what a fifty years for man! Fifty years of magic in business and of miracle in science! Space defied by telephone, wireless, automobile and aeroplane! Time defied by steel structures and perfected power machinery! Pain conquered by anaesthetics and plague by sanitation and by serum! The unheard become audible, the unseen visible, the uncountable numbered and the unmeasurable fathomed! Matter itself challenged in its last electron lair!

Explorers, victors over farthest north and farthest south, annexers of the last island, climbers nearing the summit of the highest peak! Deciphered tablets, unearthed cities and unsealed tombs trebling the years of history! Timeless strata, with prehistoric Yoricks lengthening the human story to half a million years!

Fifty years so changeful that Tutankhamen would have less difficulty to get his mental and material bearings in the world of 1874 than would the man of 1874 to adjust to the mechanics and the thought of 1924!

Yet, great as have been the achievements of this half century of marvels, greater must follow. Much is to learn and much to do before man shall make conquest in the true human levels, the social and the spiritual worlds. Who has laid the Malthusian ghost? Who has resolved the clash of nationality or the riddle of race? Who has shown Democracy how to widen leisure without enlarging the Devil's workshop or how to develop and to avail itself of great leadership rather than to remain at the dull levels of mediocrity or to sink through octracism? Who has pointed the way to a world of peace, without softened thews and regnant sentimentalism or to a world of plenty, without hucksters at the helm and blind idlers in the lookout?

To realize the highest potentials of every man and woman in all the world is the great goal. Men cannot become more like gods merely by heaping banquet-boards, by multiplying garments, by running to and fro on longer journeys or by widening the range of gossip. These things mark men as luxuriating animals only. If the race is truly to grow, to increase in soul stature, better ways must be found to lessen uncleanness, greed, selfishness and pride and to widen cleanness, charity, comradeship and reverence. Constructive search after truth, creation and appreciation of beauty, perfecting of will to serve, development of humility, tolerance and spiritual vision—these are of the upper air in which alone souls breathe.

For fifty years our University has been an upland of truth, a temple of beauty, a shrine from which men and women have gone with shining faces to serve their day. May the heroisms of this, its morning half century, the heroisms of pioneering builders and of alumni, that first eight hundred, scattered, laboriny in all lands, inspire us and myriads after us throughout its everlasting day! May an endless company of men and women, their torches lighted at the broadening altars on this hill, go forth as light bearers for the race to bring nearer and nearer the day when all the earth shall be radiant in the glory of the light that never was on land or sea!

—WALTER E. CLARK.

FOOTBALL TEAM OF 1898

TWENTY-NINE years ago football was introduced at Nevada. In the records of the U. of N. Athletic Association dated Nov. 22, 1895 appears the following item: "Received a challenge from the faculty to play a game of football on Thanksgiving Day. Accepted."

On the preceding page is a picture of our first team and first rally. The decorated wagon was the Weiland Beer wagon, the barrels having been displaced for this happy occasion. The race track was the scene of the initial game and the faculty went down to defeat. During this first season Belmont College defeated us 70-0.

The 1898 team was the first Nevada team to play on the coast. That year, for the first time, the student body collected an athletic fee at registration and was able to provide a paid coach. Two games were played at San Jose California, where Nevada won from the College of Pacific 30-0 and lost to Santa Clara, 6-12. This team played five games in all losing only one and making 121 points to their opponents 18.

THE many disadvantages under which our early teams labored did not discourage them and today their initiative and fundamental efforts are appreciated. Nine years after our first game we were the acknowledged champions of the Pacific Coast and sent a team to invade the Northwest.

The 1903 team got off to a slow start but showed that it knew football when it displayed a superior offense and defense over Stanford in a 0-0 tie. Two weeks later they met the famous California machine, which while equal in most respects was excelled in headwork. A terrific mass-on-tackle play was followed by the old quarter-back fake and Nevada carried the ball seventy yards for a touchdown. Cal afterwards forced us back for a safety but the pistol found us ahead 6-2.

This team afterwards met the University of Washington at Seattle losing 2-0. They were also defeated at Puget Sound and Corvallis.

OUR GREATEST BENEFACTORS

DURING the administration of President Joseph Edward Stubbs, Clarence Hungerford Mackay and his mother Marie Louise Mackay became interested in the welfare of our University. In honor of John William Mackay, father and husband, the ymade most generous gifts to the University. Their first gift was the splendid building which now houses the principal departments of the Mackay School of Mines. In front of this building they had placed a bronze statue of John William Mackay by Gutzon Borglum which has been called "The Man With a Vision."

Their further gifts were a fund to beautify the campus, the Mackay Athletic Field and the Training Quarters, and a generous endowment of the Mackay School of Mines.

THE COLLEGE OF ARTS AND SCIENCE

By MAXWELL ADAMS

The College of Arts and Science has had a year of much growth and, as it seems to the Dean, of creditable achievement. The work has been carried on along the lines and by the educational methods which academic experience has gradually come to recognize as probably the most advantageous that the faculty at this time can adopt. These lines of work have not varied greatly from those of preceding years. There is constant and increasing demand for more specialized courses but lack of funds and equipment make it imperative that we continue the policy of giving most attention to fundamentals and deferring specialization in law, medicene and similar professions to the time when the wealth and population of Nevada is better able to stand the expense of such instruction. Almost all departments in the University can show examples in other universities wheer they are dignified as schools or colleges, but there is no indication at present that there will be any new schools from departments now within the College of Arts and Science.

In a mining state there are some arguments favorable to a grouping of work represented by Geology, Chemistry and Metallurgy and there have been some plans discussed looking toward such a grouping, but it is not probable that any changes will be made in the near future.

The departments of Geology, Journalism, Chemistry and Business Administration in a measure fit students for specialized work and during the year all of these departments have found many students organizing their work to include courses in these somewhat professional lines. Young people grow restless and feel that a college course must fit them for some gainful occupation and not be merely a time for preparation for life in general. It becomes more apparent from year to year however that those men who expect to enter the skilled or learned professions must plan for a four years' college course upon which the later two or three years of professional work is built. A few years ago people were predicting the passing of the College of Arts and Science from our educational program but the present indicates the growing fundamental importance of its place.

Due to a number of agencies, both within and without the school, from the faculty and from the student body, several changes have been gradually coming into the college during the present year. The students have gained more fully the consciousness that they are responsible for the standing, reputation and honor of the school. That since they are members of the College Community their conduct in class room, on the athletic field or at public places is cause for more than their personal concern. Many matters of conduct which only a few years ago were observed with indifference are now frowned upon. Because of our opportunities we are beginning to feel our obligation and responsibility to our college and community.

From the point of view of administration our method of procedure is growing more regulated and our rules more stabilized. The student asks less frequently to have the rules of the college set aside for his convenience. He grows more inclined to take the course of study as outlined at the scheduled time. Only the freshmen now expect to have the instructor rewrite his lectures to meet the imagined need of the student. Scholarship for its own sake has grown more interesting and fewer students are satisfied with a mere passing grade. Taking a college course is becoming a full time job and the student who gains his credits by questionable methods is less a hero. Loyalty for, respect to, and pride in, the college have been on the increase during the year. These to me are some of the year's tendencies in the College of Arts and Science as sensed from my contacts with the students and faculty.

COLLEGE OF ENGINEERING

By F. H. SIBLEY

FOR a matter of ten years or more the writer of this page has been asked to contribute something to this or a similar book in some other university. He has often wondered whether any of his articles were read. Coming accidentally across an old college annual recently, in which he had done the usual "stunt", he read it himself and understood why it is hard to get articles accepted in the high priced magazines. So in presenting the annual "write-up" he respectfully requests to be exonerated from all blame if nobody wants to read, because that was exactly his own reaction on picking up the afore mentioned book.

The College of Engineering is still growing, in educational grace, if not in numbers. Every year more men are finding it too difficult to keep up the pace set by engineering colleges in forcing a liberal and professional education into a four year course. Such men drop out of college or take lighter work elsewhere. This means a loss in numbers but a gain perhaps in quality.

As this book goes out among the alumni and those who are about to become alumni it ought to be a reminder that graduation is not the end of college life. There are many things that the alumnus can do for his college and have done for him. Here are a few suggestions.

Every old college has its traditions. Nevada is not yet old and its traditions are largely to be made. What would you have them? What are those experiences in your college career that have stuck so firmly with you that you want to pass them down to the next generation of students?

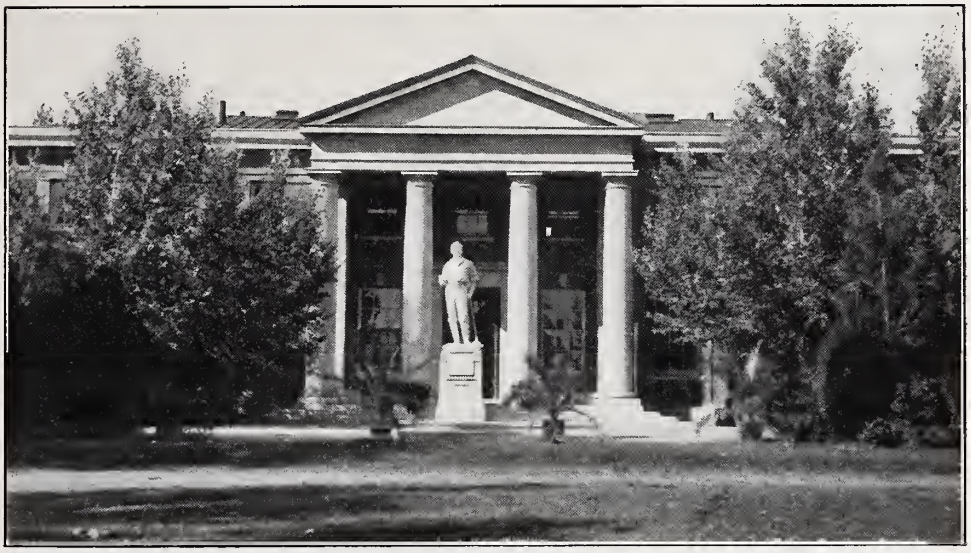

The last act of the Engineering Faculty was to plan a personelle record of every student that enters the college. This record is to give not only the estimate of teachers and supervisors but of school and fraternity mates, not alone scholastic qualities but social and moral ones as well.

We now have four live technical clubs besides an engineers association, each with its own peculiar place and function.

The heads of the four schools feel it a pleasure as well as a duty to help the graduate to locate his first position or to assist him if later he hopes to better himself. Consequently they are keeping in touch with the employment bureau of the four great engineering socities: Civil, Mining, Electrical and Mechanical as well as many of the great industrial corporations.

Is there a tradition that you want to see maintained? Write about it so that faculty and students may have a chance to give it emphasis. Do you want to change your position or find a man to fill a position? We are in touch with people having positions to fill and the alumni records will assist you in finding men with the qualities you demand. Have you made a scientific discovery, an invention or directed notable engineering work? It would make mighty interesting material for the technical society most concerned. Let your college be the clearing house for such matters so will it be able to assist you while you help it. Both will be stronger for the service.

By ROBERT STEWART

The registration of students in the College of Agriculture during the past year has been satisfactory in view of the general depression affecting the agricultural interests everywhere. There has been an appreciable decrease in registration of students in agricultural courses in most of our colleges of agriculture. This has been particularly true of the freshman class of the year 1923-24; the decrease in some cases is as high as fifty percent when compared with the previous year. Our total registration this year is approximately the same as last year while the freshmen registration has increased approximately fifty percent.

The depression affecting agricultural interests during the past three years has materially influenced the attitude of the farm boy to avoid agricultural education as demonstrated by the tendency for decreased enrollment in most of our agricultural courses in the several colleges of agriculture throughout the country. As one authority in a neighboring state says, "Parents are advising their sons to study subjects other than agriculture, notwithstanding their living is now coming from the farm and their sons are in line to inherit the farm later. Mothers especially seem to be against having their sons continue in the footsteps of their father when these footsteps follow the plow."

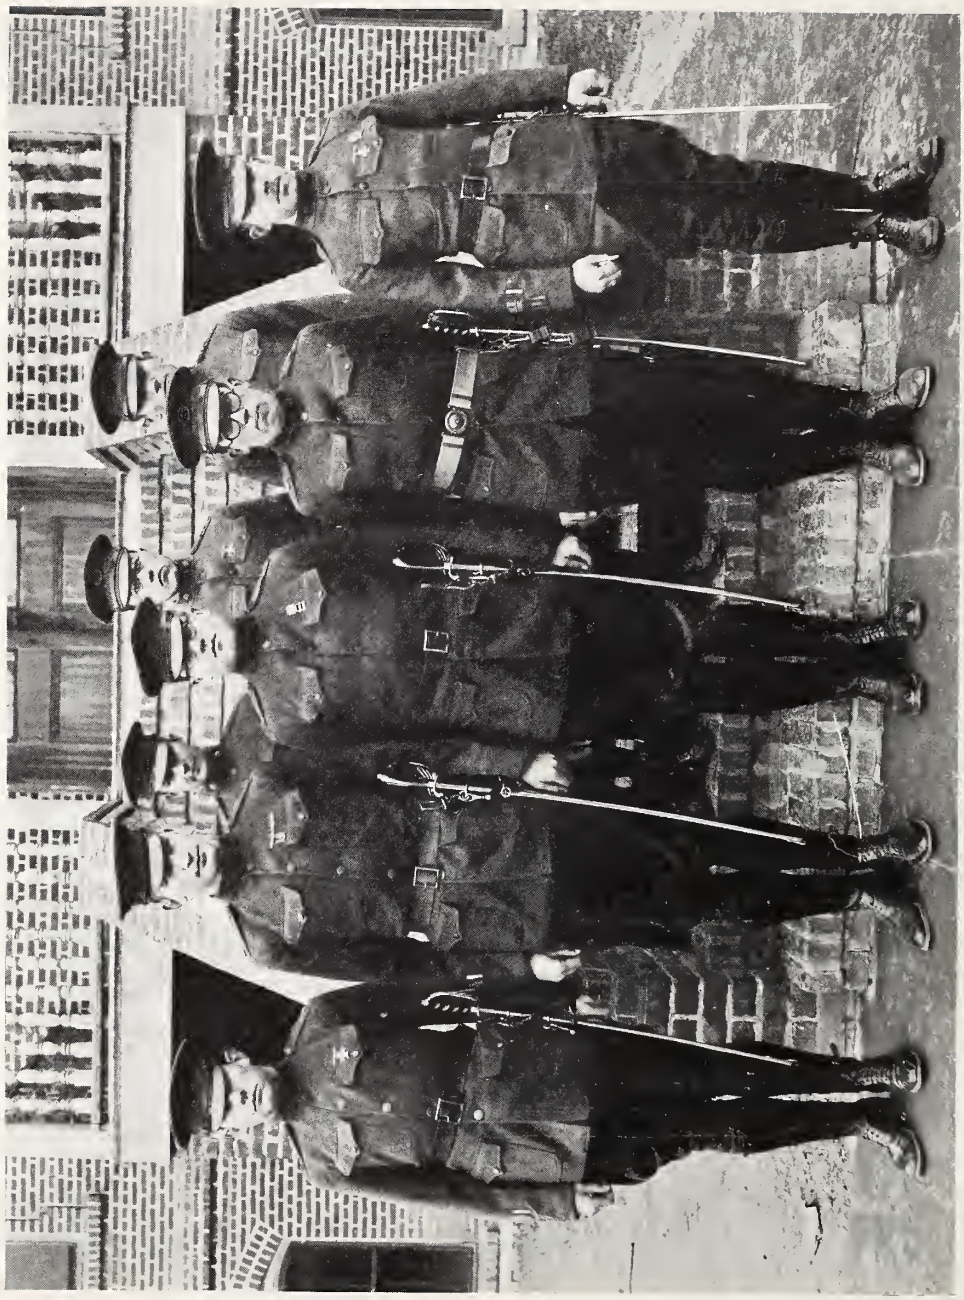

In view of these conditions it is particularly gratifying that we are maintaining our registration so well in our own College of Agriculture.

There was never a better time in my judgment for the young man to enter the agricultural field as the present. Now is the time to secure the training for leadership in agricultural affairs for just as surely as the sun rises agriculture will very rapidly come into its own and there will be a heavy demand for agriculturally trained men for leadership.

During the past year many improvements have been made to better the training offered the agricultural student. The dairy herd has been moved to the University Farm on the South Virginia Road. A new model equiped dairy laboratory has been installed in the Agricultural Building on the Campus. Additional facilities have been provided in Animal Husbandry and Agronomy work. The Agricultural Club Fair is now well established and adds very materially to the interest and work of the agricultural students.

If successful in carrying its present registration the college will graduate four students from the College of Agriculture and one from the School of Home Economics at the end of the present school year.

THE MILITARY DEPARTMENT

By Colonel J. P. Ryan

The development of the military departments keeps pace with the growth and progress of the University as a whole. The enrollment for the present year reached a high mark of 215, the greatest number in the history of the department. At commencement exercises in May, 1923, the first military graduate since the close of the World War, Donald C. Finlayson, received his commission as a lieutenant in the Officers' Reserve Corps, U. S. Army. Four members of the present senior class will complete the military course this year and will be commissioned as Reserve Officers.

The cadet corps is at present organized as a battalion of two companies and band. Officers for the year are:

Cadet Major—Cecil H. Green.

Captains—James B. Koehler, Ogden F. Monahan.

Lieutenants—John M. Fulton Jr., (Adjutant), George S. Fairbrother, Louis J. Ginnochio, Ray S. Holtzman, Eugene H. Howell.

The military band, organized in October 1923, has made splendid progress under the direction and leadership of Mr. C. H. Kent and there is good reason to hope that it will become a permanent feature of the cadet corps, and an asset of increasing importance in military training.

The military scholarship established in 1922 by the General O. M. Mitchell Women's Relief Corps was awarded for the first time at the close of the school year 1922-23. The award was made to Lewis Gridley, with Thomas F. Mullan as alternate.

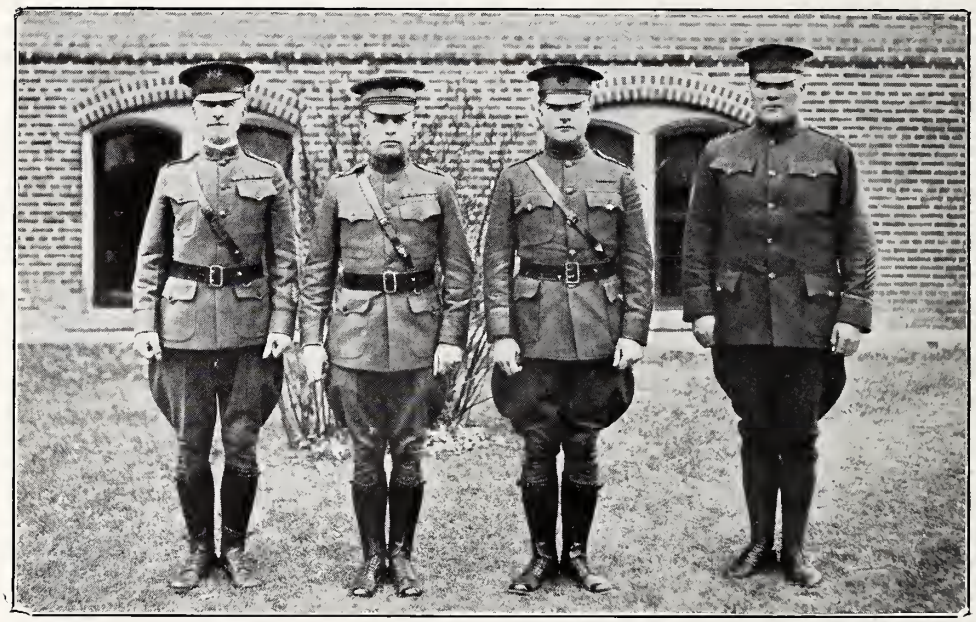

The cadet rifle team finished a very successful season by winning third place among thirty competitors in the Ninth Corps Area match. The University team was one of ten selected from the western states to represent the Ninth Corps Area in the National Reserve Officers' Training Corps competition. Members of this winning team were: M. F. Andrews, R. F. Brown, H. Duborg, G. S. Fairbrother, D. C. Finlayson, L. D. Fothergill, L. Gridley, T. F. Mullan, T. Overton, and T. J. Welsh.

A pistol team will be organized this spring from students who received instructions in pistol marksmanship at the R. O. T. C. summer training camp, and pistol shooting will be a feature of instruction of all students taking the advanced military courses.

Rifle shooting now has an established place in university athletics for women and the success of the Women's Rifle team last year has greatly increased interest in this sport. Excellent target rifles of suitable weight have now been provided and marked improvement has been shown in practice scores. Many intercollegiate matches have been arranged for the present year and Nevada will have its share of victories.

The value of the R. O. T. C. instruction and training has been acknowledged by educational authorities throughout the United States and many new units of the R. O. T. C. were introduced into colleges and high schools during the past year. At present more than 120,000 students are receiving training as members of the Officers' Reserve Training Corps and 3,800 college graduates were commissioned as junior officers of the National Reserve Force at the close of the school year 1922-23.

CLOSING its college career, the class of '24 may well look back with pride upon its four years of accomplishments and activities.

Entering the University as freshmen in the fall of 1920, we lost the poster rush through inexperience and lack of organization. We retaliated, however, by easily winning the cane rush. We gave the Block "N" on Peavine its traditional coat of white, and as a result of elaborate plans and preparations, our Frosh Glee was a decided success.

In our Sophomore year we succeeded in winning both the poster rush and cane rush, being the only class since that of '17 to win the cane rush both years, thus earning the right to wear white vests and carry canes. Our Soph Hop is still remembered as one of the best dances of the year.

Perhaps our class spirit was most evident during our junior year. We established what now promise to become campus traditions, "Junior Week", a series of stunts preceeding our Prom, and the "Whiskerino" which we gave during the second semester. We also cooperated with the class of '23 in giving their Senior Ball.

This year, the most important of the four, the class of '24 is living up to the reputation it has acquired for activity and class spirit with its plans for the Senior play and for Senior Week.

It is with mingled emotions that we approach Commencement day, reluctance to leave our Alma Mater with its wealth of associations and pleasant memories, but still eagerness to try our hand at a newer, bigger game. We intend to carry the spirit of '24 beyond the gates of the University of Nevada into the "University of Life."

WITH our college life three-fourths over, we look back over the path we have traveled and are filled with pardonable pride at our accomplishments and filled with anticipation of what the coming year may hold for us. Having outgrown the childish antics of our younger days, the rushes, the pleasures of being thrown in the lake, and the wild hayrides, we have now turned our attention to the more serious part of university life. We regard with dignified amusement the get-acquainted brawls of the lower classes, only taking a hand when necessity requires and then with a firmness that goes far to show how well we learned the lessons of the first two years.

A truly great man they tell us, never boasts of his accomplishments and it should follow that a truly great class never boasts of its past deeds. So this history shall be free from any bombastic or exhaustive record of our accomplishments.

Inexperience brought disaster in our early hazing activities but later we captured the interclass meets in both football and basketball. Our hayride to Moana Springs was an epoch making affair which nearly ruined our treasury. Last year we were outnumbered two to one but we fought every inch of the way and the Frosh knew that they had been fittingly introduced to university life. Conspicuously stands our feet of winning the cane rush last year in the record time of fourteen seconds.

In athletics, in scholarship, in social life, in dramatics and debating, as well as in all the varied activities of the campus we have more than held our own. Our dances are regarded as the big social events of the college year.

And now the pen is poised for its last work. What will the writing say? Of the deeds which it will record only the veiled future can tell us, but of its quality let the past speak. With that unity which comes from pulling together, and with faith in the organization which has been perfected among us in the course of three years, we are confident that '25 will make the coming year a fit culmination to a class history replete with accomplishments and service.

DURING its two years of history, the class of 1926 has always displayed the characteristic Nevada spirit, and its members have taken active parts in all forms of university life and activities.

We started our career as freshmen by winning a decisive victory over the Sophs in the Poster Rush. We lost the Cane Rush, but managed to "outfox" our enemies when it came to the Hayride, which was held without interruptions from the sophomores. We won the interclass track meet held that year, and a freshman football team was also organized, which was victorious in practically every game it played. As freshmen, we made the two traditional white-washing pilgrimages to the big N.

Returning this year as sophomores, we found ourselves overwhelmingly outnumbered in the class battles by an exceptionally large class of first year men. We were defeated by the Babes in the bloodiest Cane Rush ever held on Mackay Field. During the first semester, our energies were chieflly devoted to laking and paddling parties, held in honor of Frosh who failed to obey traditions. We have been relieved of these duties this semester, as it has been decided to give the freshmen a trial at disciplining themselves.

Through another change in tradition which eliminated the Hayride, the class of '26, working in conjunction with the freshman class, had the honor of staging Nevada's first Soph-Frosh Bury-the-hatchet rally. This bonfire rally, given to the upper classes by the sophomores and freshmen, is one of Nevada's newest traditions. The sophomore stunt of displaying huge, blazing class numerals above the heads of the men who serpentined the field with torches, was one of the outstanding features of this first rally.

In the matter of giving dances, twenty-six has established an enviable reputation. Our King Tut Ball, given as the Frosh Glee, is still remembered as the best social event of that year, while the Sophomore Hop, given this year, was acclaimed as one of the best "best-evers".

BOUND together by a bigger and better college spirit, three hundred new students entered the university in September to form the class of '27. Led and guided by the upperclassmen we banded together the first day to defend our rights as the class of '27. A meeting was held under the supervision of the juniors the first day we appeared on the campus. In the poster rush, a short struggle lasting barely twenty minutes, we were declared the victors of the first fight by the Upperclass committee.

The following Saturday we again succeeded in vanquishing the second-year men by holding them to the twenty-minute time limit in the cane rush. If we are able to repeat this performance again next year, we will have the honor of wearing white vests and carrying canes.

Due to a decision of the Upperclass committee the old hayride, which usually resulted in a free-for-all egg fight in the business district, was abolished. In its place a new and better idea of a Freshman-Sophomore rally was substituted. This new custom in the form of a "bury-the-hatchet" rally was a huge success. On the program were individual class stunts, a monstrous bonfire, class yells and talks by members of the faculty and prominent students. It is something that started with the class of '27 and we hope that in coming years it can be done as successfully.

During the first semester we received our allotted punishment by lake, tub and paddle but with the second semester came an entirely new method of discipline. It was then decided that we should discipline ourselves. A system of humiliation punishment was instituted and, according to sufferers, it serves its purpose admirably.

We have filled our quota of athletes as well as places on publications. We have supported all campus organizations and societies as far as possible. We feel that we have done our best for the school so far and will continue to do so in our remaining years of college.

ANOTHER college year is coming to a close and another resume of student activities is in order. It will not suffice to mention only the student administration and the increase in numbers of the student body this year.

The college year 1923-24 will stand out as a high light in the history of the University. It it this year that we celebrate the 50th anniversary of the founding of the University of Nevada. We will draw comparisons between the past and the present.

The transformation of the campus from a desolate spot of sagebrush and sand to one of the most beautiful of its kind.

The increase of the faculty from a mere handful to a large and celebrated group who have individually won enviable reputations in their fields.

We will again do honor to the benefactors who have aided in the development of the University.

We will recall with pride the names of many alumni. Then we will turn to the student activities.

The abolition of the "Frosh Hayride", an action taken by the Upper Class Committee, feeling that this event had outgrown it's original purpose and had become a hinderance to the real Nevada spirit.

The growth of the U. of N. Sagebrush till at the present time it is the largest college weekly in the West.

The recognition of the Artemisia as one of the most complete and best prepared of college year books.

The appearance of the Desert Wolf, the quarterly magazine of the Associated Students.

The inception of a new system of freshmen discipline whereby the first year class is given the authority to govern themselves and a greater opportunity to display their interest in the University and their ability to assume responsibility.

A step toward a new system of athletic managership where managers of each sport are selected by a process of elimination through three years of keen competition.

The development of a similar system for the campus publications, with editors and managers appointed because of merit rather than elected by popular vote.

The presentation of the "Wolves Frolic", the annual University show, the proceeds of which are used for football purposes.

The completion of a football season, the results of which are known from coast to coast, marked by the Nevada-California game when the Golden Bear, fighting desperately, held the Wolf Pack to a scoreless tie.

The origin of Nevada's battle cry, "Beat 'EM ALL, IT'S NEVADA'S YEAR." A slogan of an undaunted spirit, of an institution out to win by fair means against all odds, accepting defeat with a smile and a determination to do better next time.

NEVADA'S school year has been a financial success. This success is largely due to the Finance Control Committee, which was started last year and which allows expenditures of student body money only after careful consideration. Requisitions have been cut and expenditures curtailed so that many dollars were saved which would otherwise have been spent unneccessarily.

The committee is composed of two members of the faculty, one of whom presides at all meetings, the president and treasurer of the student body, the latter acting as secretary of the committee, and a women's and men's representative elected from the student body at large. The athletic coach and business manager attend meetings when funds for athletics are being considered and the business manager submits a financial report of each game for the approval of the committee.

One rule which the committee has made and is endeavoring to acquaint the campus with is that it will not sanction any expenditures unless first passed upon by a duly authorized meeting of the committee.

The committee itself was organized as a result of the growing need for a fair apportionment of the student body funds among the various campus organizations. A detailed account of student body expenditures has been kept so that a budget system may be started next year if it is thought advisable.

Itemized reports from the different organizations of the campus including the Artemisia, Clionia, Sagebrush, athletics and other activities are scrutinized closely. It is the privilege of any student to present his case before the committee, if he represents an organization of the campus, but he must show the committee wherein the University will benefit if the money requested is granted.

The general proceedure adopted by the committee in granting a requisition is as follows: the requisition is asked for by a member of the student body in person, by letter or through one of the members of the committee. A general discussion follows as to the merits and disadvantages of the proposal; the question is called and a vote taken. The requisition is granted when approved by two-thirds of the committee.

FROM its first meeting in September, when it welcomes all freshmen women, instructs them in their duty in observing campus traditions, and urges them to live up to high ideals of womanhood, the Associated Women Students is an agency throughout the year for erecting and upholding the standards of recognized worth.

The organization is composed of all women registered at the University, with its main object not only the promoting of ideals, but the practical effort of meeting the needs of the women on the campus.

During the week of registration the club does much to help the bewildered little frosh find their places in the many nooks offered them. The "Big Sister" plan by which every new girl is cared for by an advisee, has created a spirit of good fellowship, which dissolves all the petty features of small group companionship.

Lounging rooms and a cozy study room are maintained in part through the work of this group.

In 1923, a woman's honor society was established, its purpose being to give recognition to the women who through activities show their power of helpful leadership.

In May a delegate was sent to Columbus, Ohio, to the national convention of Women's Self Government Associations. Here problems of college campuses were discussed and remedies proposed, with the result that many suggestions were adopted for use on this campus, aiding materially in the settlement of perplexities.

A delegate will be sent this year to Tucson, Arizona, where a western sectional conference is being held.

THE ALUMNI ASSOCIATION OF THE UNIVERSITY OF NEVADA

OFFICERS

JOHN S. BELFORD.....President
GRACE MAHAN*Vice-President*
MRS. ROBERT LEWERS.....Secretary-Treasurer

WITH the great increase in both numbers and in that intangible thing called spirit at the University during the past few years, there has been a similar growth in the Alumni Association.

The last year has seen the formation of branch associations at both San Francisco and Los Angeles where a great many former students are living. These branches have done much for our athletic teams while they were playing on the coast and they indicate a wholesome growth of alumni spirit that speaks well for the future.

The annual Homecoming Day was celebrated this year on October 27th and more old grads returned to the campus than ever before. Much is done by this annual reunion to stimulate cooperation and mutual understanding between the alumni and the undergraduate body and it is confidently hoped that it will be as successful in the future as it has been in the past.

The present year marks the fiftieth anniversary of the founding of the university and its birthday is to be celebrated at Commencement. It is fitting and appropriate that at this time the University is to honor those children of her's that have best lived up to the ideals which she sought so earnestly to teach them.

Ten alumni, chosen by the alumni in general, are to have their names placed upon the Alumni Honor Roll as having performed distinguished public service. It is the appreciation of their Alma Mater for a task well done.

No account of the progress of the Alumni Association would be complete without a word of appreciation to President Clark. To him is given the grateful thanks of the alumni for his tireless energy in advancing the interests, not only of the University but of the Alumni Association as well.

FREDA FUETSCH Treasurer

"IN A day that will be by and by" there can be no happier memory for some of us who are graduates of Nevada "U" than those happy days spent at Manzanita. When in the twilight of life we call to mind the days we spent within the hall, and pass again through the years of Freshman trials and triumphs and frolics and fun; of Sophomoric despotism while we taught the Frosh to kindle fires in Manzanita's cozy fire place; of the happy life we led as Juniors, unharrassed by senior's worries, yet basking in the realm of the lordly upperclassman; and lastly those ne'er-to-be-forgotten days of the senior's college triumphs, we will come to realize even more fully the true significance of those letters L. F. G. which mean so much to every Manzanita-ite.

Manzanita has many traditions. Never will we forget Manzanita's far-famed "Blue Curtains", beyond which man is allowed to trespass but once a year, and this upon the occasion when Manzanita plays hostess to the men of Lincoln Hall, and holds wide the "Blue Curtains" so that her guests may get a glimpse of freshly-cretonned rooms beyond.

The women of Manzanita Hall have worked out a system of self-government which operates with great success in the hall. Monthly meetings are held at which problems of the hall are discussed. Manzanita women take pride in the fact that they are organized as one big family, and it is in this spirit that the hall is governed so harmoniously. The rules of the hall are enforced by a committee known as the Manzanita Executive Committee, which is composed of the officers of the association and one representative from each of the four classes, and directed by Miss Margaret E. Mack, Dean of Women with Mrs. Lucy Meyer, Matron of the hall as her assistant.

Manzanita's Gypsy Dance of the past year will long be remembered as one of the most successful functions.

And so we may truly say that whatever the years may bring of joy and of sorrow there will always be that most pleasant of memories when in a "day that will be by and by" we tell our stories of those dear old days in Manzanita.

AS a university stands for progress and achievement, so the organizations within the sphere of university environment should strive toward objectives that include improvement, development and attainment along those lines for which the respective organizations stand. Each should persist in acquiring those phases of quality that will endure even though at times the upward trend may be temporarily checked.

Lincoln Hall, the dormitory for men, possesses an old and characteristic history according to the type of men living within its wall during various years. If plotted, the history line of the hall would point upward, not in a continuous direction but with notable deviations occuring at irregular intervals. This line would also be indicative of a type of men and because good men come to live in the hall the line continues to point upward.

Foremost among those men characterized as good men stand the masters of Lincoln Hall. The late Professor A. E. Turner, former master of the hall, believed in the ability of the men to manage their own affairs. He placed faith in the men because through his own way of living he seemed to radiate toward all who knew his qualities of faith and devotion to life's higher puroses.

In the present master of Lincoln Hall, Professor Leach, the men are fortunate in having the same sincere type of leader, a man staunch for the principles that guide men in the ways of kindly, clean living. We miss our old leader, we welcome our new master.

During the last year upperclass control has been exerted primarily with one aim. This has been to improve the moral standard of the hall. Loose living has not and will not be tolerated.

Men come to live in the hall from almost every state in the Union and many foreign countries. Here the amalgamating spirit of fellowship and good will extended toward all men tends to develope loyal supporters of the University of Nevada.

The University is constantly building toward greater fields of endeavor. Lincoln Hall as an integral part of the institution must keep apace with this development. The hall aims to develope men.

THE ASSOCIATED ENGINEERS OF THE UNIVERSITY OF NEVADA

OFFICERS

A. J. SHAVER President
ELBERT D. CURTIS Vice-President
E. J. CARLSON Secretary-Treasurer

ALL students of the University registered in engineering are eligible to membership in the Association. This group includes the technical engineering organizations, namely: American Institute of Electrical Engineers, student branch; the Crucible Club for upperclass mining students; the American Society of Mechanical Engineers, student branch.

The association was organized in the spring of 1922 for the purpose of bringing the engineering students and the faculty of engineering into closer contact, to give the lower class students in engineering a unit in which they might take an active part, and to have an organization to handle problems of the student engineer.

In its program, the association has speakers among whose number are technical men who are authorities in their special lines. The meetings are interesting and well attended by both students and faculty.

Another year of work and effort on the part of the Associated Engineers was brought to a close March 15 when they gave their annual Engineers' Day and dance. The day was marked with notable exhibits in the various buildings and the variety and spice of the stunts on Mackay Field. The dance in the evening was the "best yet."

Although only two years old, the association is the largest single organization on the Campus, and promises to be a factor in the life of the University and in the activities associated with student life, especially for the engineering student.

THE BAND

C. H. KENT Director
W. H. BUNTIN Drum Major
THOMAS WELCH Business Manager

THE University Band was organized and directed this year by Prof. C. H. Kent as a unit of the R. O. T. C. It has taken part in all of the cadet parades, ceremonies and inspections, leading the battalion in the Armistice Day Parade.

Besides the customary turn-outs for rallies and football games, the band has branched out into several new lines of activities this year. Band dances have been successfully introduced to the Campus, and a new precedent of playing at basketball games has been inaugurated.

For the first time since 1913, the band has been successful in carrying its activities over into the second semester. Eight new men joined this last semester, giving the band a total of twenty-six members.

The outlook for the band's future seems very bright, and it is hoped that with requisitions received from the Student Body and the University, along with the money earned by the band itself, there will soon be enough money in the treasury to fit the entire band with new uniforms.

TO promote international harmony; to study and discuss world affairs; to create an interest in cosmopolitanism and the various nationalities; to promote campus sympathy for lands and peoples outside the United States are the functions of the Cosmopolitan Club.

False prejudices against race, color and religion are swept away; the main purpose of the mundialist organization is to preach that "above all is humanity." Students attending the University from other countries will, in the Cosmopolitan Club, find a group of sincere, understanding and sympathetic friends. The foreign student is made to feel at home, not as though he were set adrift in a strange world. The members of the Cosmopolitan Club are bound by the chain of youth, internationalism and the pursuit of learning.

CADUCEUN CLUB

EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE

Helen Duffy Dorothy Sullivan Frances Miller

THE Caduceun Club was organized at the University of Nevada in the fall of 1922 by a group of women who were interested in hiking and various other outdoor sports.

The primary object and aim of the club is the promotion of consistent participation by the members, in all types of outdoor athletics. This is accomplished by weekly hikes, on which the members wear the red bandana, symbolizing the friendly spirit of the road. Real companionship and friendliness are the principal ideals of the club, and the fostering of that democratic spirit that has done so much to make Nevada what it is.

Although the membership is limited, any woman who is sufficiently interested in the type of athletics followed by the members, and who proves herself worthy of the ideals of the club, and capable of its undertakings, is eligible to membership.

The greatest activity of the organization is during the fall and spring months, especially the latter, when the hills and mountains around Reno offer unusual opportunity for enjoyable hikes far into the pines. During the winter months skating, skiing, and toboggoning are enjoyed whenever possible.

At a regular business meeting held each month hikes are planned and programs outlined for the month's activity. This eliminates business discussions during the hikes and outings, which are strictly informal in character.

Mercury is the patron god, and the staff of Caudceun representing authority, power, health, diligence and activity, is symbolized in the pine designed by the members.

THE Mechanical Engineer's Club of the University of Nevada is an organization to which all students and faculty of the Mechanical Engineering Department are eligible. The club is now affiliated with the student branch of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers. This affiliation has brought the club into closer contact with national problems related to this particular field of engineering.

The purpose of the club is to further the interest of its members in Mechanical Engineering. This interest is stimulated by talks from engineers who are specialists in their lines and by interesting discussions among the members on technical subjects related to this profession.

THE Student Chapter of the American Society of Civil Engineers has completed its first year as an organization with a great deal of success.

The purpose of the organization is to aid in the general improvement of its members in their chosen profession and to keep the members in touch with the latest developments in the branch of engineering in which they are most interested.

Meetings were held on the first Wednesday of each month. At several of these meetings the chapter was fortunate in having a number of well-known engineers address them.

ELECTRICAL ENGINEERS

ROBERT PLAUS.....President

LAST October a student branch of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers was established at the University of Nevada as a result of favorable action taken on the petition of the Electric Club by the Board of Directors of the National Institute.

All electrical students above the grade of freshmen are entitled to membership in this society.

The organization strives to bring its members into contact with men of high repute in the electrical world by inviting them to lecture before the regular meetings of the society. It further aims to keep in close personal contact with the graduates.

Judging from the keen interest taken in the organization, its future success is assured.

THE CRUCIBLE CLUB

TRUX HOWELL.....President
LOUIS WARNKEN.....Secretary-Treasurer

THE Crucible Club is the oldest science club in the University of Nevada. It was formed in 1902 by the faculty and upperclass students of the School of Mines. The purpose of the club is to promote the study of mining, metallurgy, geology and mineralogy, and to bring the students into closer relationship with their professors. The club was later affiliated with the American Institute of Mining and Metallurgical Engineers.

During the past few years the club has been especially active, and has been successful in securing several noted engineers to present some of their experiences to the club members.

THE "Ag" Club' composed of the men students in Agriculture and the women students in Home Economics, comprises approximately ten per cent of the student body of the university.

From the experience gained in 1922 the club staged an "Aggie" Fair this year that eclipsed anything of the kind ever attempted on the campus.

The Fair was held October 26-27, the date of Homecoming Day and the Nevada-Santa Clara football game. The Farm Bureau, the extension division, and various downtown firms all cooperated in making the affair a success. As a fitting climax to the fair, the annual "Aggie" dance was held in the "gym", and was attended by a large number of the old graduates.

HOME ECONOMICS CLUB

OFFICERS

MARJORIE OHMAN.....President
NELLIE SLOAN*Vice-President*
ISABEL HAYES.....Secretary-Treasurer

ALL women students registered in one or more Home Economic courses are eligible to membership in the Home Economics Club. The purpose of the organization is to bring into realization a closer bond of unity and cooperation between faculty, students and research workers throughout the state interested in this line of work.

The club holds regular bi-monthly meetings at which times national and local problems of a Home Economic nature are presented and discussed. Speakers whose words are authoritative in Home Economic circles are often secured to address the group.

This year a program of charitable helpfulness has been adopted by the members. New material is purchased or worn garments are solicited by the department and recreated into practical clothing for the needy and deserving children, not only of Reno but throughout the state. In this manner its function is transformed from a mere social unit to a useful and praiseworthy organization.

Finished products from the Home Economic department are placed on display at the annual Agricultural Fair which is held usually in the late fall. Samples of cooked food are donated to each visitor while articles of sewing, weaving and home decoration are on exhibition for the inspection of the domestically inclined.

The Home Economics Club endeavors to cooperate with the Extension Department as much as possible. Toward this end the Home Economic teachers in the High Schools throughout the state are made honorary members. Some social function is usually given to entertain the visiting Home Economic teachers during Institute week and the Farm Bureau members during their convention.

Great plans are in the making to further the purpose and importance of the Home Economics Club. A fine spirit of cooperation among the members is maintained—a spirit of helpfulness and mutual understanding, accompanied by the ability to do whatever tasks are placed before them.

THE Y. W. C. A. at the University of Nevada, an organization whose membership includes all women on the campus, aims to bring the students of this university into closer Christian relationship. By a study of national and international problems in its discussion groups, it stimulates thought and promotes a feeling of world fellowship.

The governing body of the organization is a cabinet composed of the officers and nine committee chairmen. The upperclass women and sophomores form the membership of the committees. This year the freshmen women have been organized as a separate unit—the freshmen commission. The duties of the officers and committees of the freshmen commission correspond to those of the senior organization.

The Y. W. C. A. extends its ideals of service through its Social Service, Social, and World Fellowship committees. As a Christian organization it supplies the definite need for religious expression among the students.

ALTHOUGH finding it particularly difficult to make progress at the University of Nevada, the Y. M. C. F. A. has just passed through its most successful year. With the objective of Christian fellowship, bible study, and above all the development of an international attitude toward all peoples, the "Y" has carried on this year with renewed efforts and has felt the reward of labor.

Professor Leach, Archie Knowles, Richard Hardin and Edward Min represented the University as delegates to Asilomar, while John Fulton attended the International Convention of Y. M. C. A. Workers at Indianapolis.

The study groups which started two years ago were renewed this year with success.

WOMEN'S RIFLE TEAM

THE Women's Rifle Team of the University of Nevada has had a successful season despite the fact that it has been handicapped by a lack of ammunition. With the acquisition of new special model target rifles, the quality of the marksmanship exceeded even the excellent records of the previous year, and two matches had been won by the Nevada team when it became necessary to postpone further contests until a requisition for ammunition could be obtained.

The Women's Rifle Team was organized in the fall of 1922, under the supervision of the Military Department of the University, and almost immediately correspondence began with universities and colleges all over the country which were interested in arranging matches with the local team. This sport has taken precedence over all other forms of intercollegiate athletics for women, and increasing interest is being manifested by Nevada women.

MEN'S RIFLE TEAM

THE University of Nevada R. O. T. C. Rifle team has just passed a very successful season. The team has competed against twenty-two universities and colleges.

The development of practically a new team this season was made necessary by the fact that all except one member of last year's team had left school. Much more interest has been taken by the underclassmen this year than ever before, a fact which gives promise of better teams in the future.

SINCE April 1913 the Gothic N Society has been the girls' letter organization of the University of Nevada. Prior to 1921 all girls participating in one-half an intercollegiate basketball game were eligible for membership. In 1921 the University of Nevada girls played their last intercollegiate game against Oregon Agricultural College at Corvallis.

Due to the fact that intercollegiate basketball for women was discontinued, the three last members of the old Gothic N Society left on the campus drew up a new constitution for the organization in April 1923. Gothic N Society is now an honor society, conferring letters upon only those juniors and seniors who are proficient in one of the major sports, basketball and tennis.

THE membership of Delta Alpha Epsilon is composed of those women students of the University of Nevada who are majors or minors in English and hold exceptional scholarship records.

D.A.E. was primarily a dramatic society for the study and production of Shakespearean plays. Its histrionic character, however, was superseded by the advent of Campus Players and it has since evolved into a society for the fostering of appreciation of the modern arts.

It was founded early in May of 1916. At that time Shakespeare's "Twelfth Night" was produced by a group of women students at the Century Club. This was the public announcement of the formation of a women's English honor society.

Monthly meetings of the organization are held at the various sorority houses. The formality of the short business meeting is followed by the impromptu presentation of a drama or comedy and farcical criticism of the actresses.

The presentation of two one-act plays is planned for the Spring semester, one to be given on the Campus, the other at the Majestic Theater.

The novel feature of Delta Alpha Epsilon is the spring running of initiates. Dressed in fantastic Shakespearean costumes, the newly elected members patrol the campus the morning of initiation. At the assembly hour the group present ridiculous stunts in the auditorium for the criticism of the University public. A banquet is given at the completion of the initiation during which the D.A.E. pin is presented with solemn ceremony to each new member.

THERE is an ancient saying to the effect that newspaper men—and women—are sure to enjoy a pleasant life in the next world. They have their hell on earth.

Work on the staff of the U. of N. Sagebrush may not be equal to that required by the Prince of Darkness, but it is exacting enough to constitute a very material sacrifice of time and service. Students wishing the plaudits of the campus rarely try for a place on the "Brush" staff.

Why, then, should one enter a field of activity that has the outward appearance of drudgery—that demands long and late hours every week of the university year? The answer is not difficult—"newspaperitis".

Once experience the thrill of seeing your words and your thoughts in type, and you automatically become one of that brotherhood whose task-master is the typewriter—whose meat and drink, the printed page.

"Newspaperitis" is an insidious disease. Let it gain a foothold, and there is no stopping its spread—no remedy for its removal though one live to tottering old age.

And because of the innumerable joys and sorrows that mark the life of a newspaper worker there will always be a Sagebrush—there will always be students willing to sacrifice their time, even their pleasure, that the "Brush" may be an accurate and inclusive record of all that takes place on The Hill throughout the year; every year.

Whatever the merits or defects of the 1923-1924 Sagebrush, they will soon be past the power of improvement or correction. A poor machine may be repaired—a spoken word qualified—but the printed page must stand forever as it comes from the press.

So with this year's "Brush." It will be filed away with those of other days—remembered only by the staff that produced it. But it will be more than a memory to them—it will be a treasure. Every line—every story—will recall hours of work in the smoky office; the dingy, paper-littered office that they learned to love—that corner of the campus that was wholly theirs.

The reason? "Newspaperitis".

THE ARTEMISIA

THE fiftieth anniversary of the University of Nevada finds the Artemisia appearing on the campus for the twenty-first time. From its initial appearance in 1899 until 1917 the publication had a very checkered career.

It was first published by an independent association of students, after which it was taken over by the senior class. Still later, the juniors took charge of its publication and the book continued under them until taken over by the A. S. U. N. under whose supervision the book is still published.

The Artemisia appeared annually from 1899 to 1906 when it was destroyed by the fire in San Francisco where it was being printed. Its publication was resumed the following year and continued until 1909, after which none appeared until 1913. With the exception of the years 1915 and 1916, it has appeared annually ever since.

The Artemisia's original purpose is defined in the 1904 issue, twenty years ago, as follows:

" to set forth as graphically as possible the various phases and incidents of our college life during the year, so that, in the years to come when our University will have broadened its sphere of influence and will be sheltering a larger number of students within its walls, they will be able to obtain an adequate conception of our struggles and triumphs, our aims and accomplishments and to see what standard the University has attained at the end of its first thirty years of life."

We have tried to live up to this purpose in the 1924 Artemisia. In showing the University's progress during its first fifty years, we were fortunate in our opportunity to publish a semi-centennial edition.

Because histories and historical data concerning the University would be available at the end of the school year in the Reno newspapers, the Sagebrush and the history of the school which is being published by S. B. Doten, we decided to present our material by means of pictures as much as possible. We are particularly indebted to Nevada Historical Society, S. B. Doten, Frank H. Norcross, J. H. Clemons and Senator C. B. Henderson of Elko.

THE DESERT WOLF

ALEX. G. COTTER.....Managing Editor

VERA SMITH.....Assistant Editor

THE U. of N. Sagebrush was born on the campus nearly thirty years ago. The Artemisia has made nearly twenty-five annual appearances on the campus. With these sound careers of a quarter-century's development as forerunners, it required a real need, an amount of initiative, energy and vision for a new publication to make its initial bow.

There was a need for a special organ devoted exclusively to short stories, timely articles, poetry and art. The student body recognized this need in the spring of 1923, and through an amendment presented by A. G. Cotter, the Desert Wolf was created.

Cotter was named managing editor of the new publication for the year 1923-24, and Nevada Semenza was chosen editor. To secure the magazine as a sound business venture and to build up a circulation was the work of the summer.

With the opening of the fall semester, work on the new publication began and bore fruit in Volume 1, Number 1, on the Desert Wolf's history, dated October, 1923, which appeared on Homecoming Day. Since then, both the December and March issues have appeared, each marking a sturdy step forward in the path that leads to development.

The work of the editors has not been merely to compile and edit quantities of material, as is the case in larger schools, but their task has been to stimulate an interest in literary work among the students. They have had to gather the material after much urgent prodding.

In a word, they have experienced the hardship and trials of the typical pioneer, and their reward will be the satisfaction of having laid a solid foundation for a magazine of real literary merit in the future.

The Desert Wolf has safely weathered the period of its whelphood, stormy though it was, and its future as a full-grown wolf has no doubt been strengthened by the ease with which it has overcome difficulties and corrected errors.

The foundation has been laid in this first year, and the vision is one destined to be reflected in the coming years.

THE Press Club was organized approximately a year ago. It was fostered by the editors and staffs of the Sagebrush and Artemisia, and membership was extended to all who were interested in Journalism.

The primary interests and aims of the club have been centered in the college publications, and the fostering of clean journalism and efficient journalistic methods on this campus. The influence of the Press Club has been felt very keenly in the added interest it has aroused among the students in the Sagebrush, and in Sagebrush work. Here, too, the editors and staff have had opportunity to discuss with those interested the strength and weakness of the publication. with a definite view toward its betterment.

The Desert Wolf, which made its initial appearance on the campus last October had its origin in the Press Club, where the crying need for such a publication was first acted upon. Tentative plans were drawn up, and the appointment of editor and business manager was approved by the organization. The outline of the magazine was then submitted to the Club, and a type of magazine planned which should reflect the interests of the student and scholastic life, and meet the demand of the University for a student literary work in addition to the daily and annual publications already established.

Meetings are held every two weeks, business and social alternating. It is the aim, whenever possible, to have some journalist or writer of experience address the club at its social meetings. At the last meeting of the first semester, Sherwood Anderson talked to the group on the relation of newspaper work to a literary career, and gave some interesting memories on his own life as a writer.

The advisability of petitioning a national group, either an honorary or a professional journalistic fraternity, was considered for some time, but as these were open only to the men members of the organization, it was deemed impracticable. The whole incentive, then, will be the Nevada campus and campus publications, and the application of higher journalistic standards to what is perhaps the most significant of our student activities.

PRIOR to 1921 there was no dramatic organization on the campus of the University of Nevada. Clionia, the debating society, sometimes produced plays but its interest was chiefly in debating. Delta Alpha Epsilon, the English honor society, occasionally staged plays also.

In 1921, under the auspices of Clionia, "His Majesty Bunker Bean" was produced and after playing successfully in Reno was taken to Virginia City and Carson City. After the trip the cast of this play, together with several members of Clionia and Delta Alpha Epsilon who felt that there should be a dramatic organization on the Hill, formed the Campus Players.

The following year the new organization gave its initial production, "And Billy Disappeared", which was very well received. In the spring semester of 1923 "Come Out of the Kitchen" was produced and last semester the society presented "The Irresistible Marmaduke", probably the most ambitious play attempted and the one which met with the greatest success.

From the profits of the plays it has produced, Campus Players has fitted out the small stage in the Education Building so that its one act plays may be staged there, but it is looking forward to the day when the University will have an auditorium which Campus Players hopes to equip fully so that all its productions may be given on the campus and a more practical study of scenic and lighting effects may be afforded.

Campus Players has passed the critical stage and has taken its place among the strong organizations on the Hill, but it owes its very existence to the enthusiasm and earnest work of its coach and advisor, the late Prof. A. E. Turner. It was he who kept the interest in dramatics strong when it threatened to lag. His death at the very outset of the work on "The Irresistible Marmaduke" cast a gray pall over the entire organization.

CAST OF "THE IRRESISTIBLE MARMADUKE"

"THE IRRESISTIBLE MARMADUKE"

"HOW COULD YOU!"

Played to a crowded house at the Rialto Theatre on the evening of December 11, "The Irresistible Marmaduke" was very well received and hailed by many as Campus Players' best production. "Marmaduke," a three-act English comedy, written by Ernest Denny, was rich in suspense and dramatic moments. Its romantic appeal was strong, and its pleasing comedy far above the ordinary farcical, slapstick type.

The second act, with its much-advertised "bedroom scene", the unexpected arrival of the drunken Marmaduke, and the mystifying "double change" which brought the hero face to face with his double, afforded many of the thrills in the play.

As Patricia O'Brien, the vicacious and coquettish heroine, Luethal Austin, '24, completely captivated her audience. Harold Coffin, '26, took both parts of his dual role as the drunken Marmaduke and his irresistible double equally well.

In her role of an over-indulgent mother, Jane O'Sullivan, '24, gave a finished performance. John Fulton, '25, fitted the part of Mortimer perfectly.

Lucile Blake, '25, as Lady Susan, and Harlow North, '24, as Dr. O'Keefe both made the most of difficult parts. Bertha Standfast, '24, put force into her part, "that swooping Wyley bird."

Others in the cast were: Freda Feutsch, '24, as Dawson, the maid; Laurence Quill, '24, as Christopher Deacon; Ottway Peck, '24; Murray Johnson, '24, and Douglas Castle, '27.

Every member of the cast gave a perfectly natural interpretation to his part, the whole performance moved smoothly, and taking it all in all, the Players' presentation of Denny's play was of a truly high class, professional caliber.

The play was directed by Dr. H. W. Hill, head of the English department. He was assisted by Miss Dorothy Ross and Mr. F. P. Dann.

THE primary purpose of Clionia, one of the veteran organizations on the Nevada Campus, is participation in intercollegiate and intersociety debates. It serves the students of the University as a forum for discussion of all vital topics. It neither requires nor invites unity of opinion among its members but rather diversity and cosmopolitanism of thought. Its main requirement for membership is effective speaking actuated by effective thinking.

During the first semester an underclass Clionia team held a debate with the Sacramento Junior College in Reno, the question propounded being: "Resolved: That Congress should pass federal legislation providing for compulsory arbitration in all individual disputes." The Nevadans took the negative side and were the victors.

Great interest is fostered among the members by the holding of debates on campus happenings at the bi-monthly meetings. Intersociety debates are also held, various members representing different organizations.

Debates are to be held during the spring semester with the following colleges: University of Wyoming, University of Utah, University of Southern California and the University of Redlands. Questions appertaining to the acceptance of a World Court will be debated with the former two. All the debates will be held in Reno with the exception of the one with the University of Utah which will be conducted in Salt Lake.

Two teams have been selected to represent Nevada. They are composed of Sydney Robinson and William Anderson, Ernest Brown and Donnell Richards.

DEBATING SEASON

FOR the last decade or more the University of Nevada has included debating in its schedule of intercollegiate contests. Debates have been held with colleges and universities ranging in size from the University of California to the College of the Pacific. Both the University and the A. S. U. N. have recognized debating, the University by awarding watch fobs to members of the teams, the A. S. U. N. by presenting debaters with Circle "N's".

Last year, Nevada's team, consisting of Sidney Robinson and John Fulton, debated the College of the Pacific, Wyoming, Brigham Young and Oklahoma Universities. Although not very successful, the efforts of the Nevada team resulted in the formation of the Utah-U. S. C.-Nevada League last November.

Due to the schedule which provides for two debates on the same date, it was necessary to pick two teams. The men chosen were Sidney Robinson, William Anderson, Ernest Brown and Donnell Richards, who will represent the University in what is hoped will be the most successful season Nevada has ever had.

ATHLETICS

HAVING the greatest wealth of material ever trying out for a Nevada football team and facing a schedule which provided for eight games, three of them with Conference teams, Coach Courtright started early in September to build the team which later in the season was to startle the sporting circles of the United States.

In looking over the schedule it is found that probably the greatest factor involved in the defeats of the Wolves was the first game of the season. The powerful Olympic Club team was the first eleven to meet the Silver and Blue and their superior knowledge of the game and their rough tactics were too much for the smaller Wolves. Several of the stars were disabled for nearly a month and a few others received injuries which, while slight, remained with them through the entire season.

With all these handicaps the Wolves went on their way and at the end of the season it was found that the only teams able to defeat the Wolves were the three Conference teams. In the games with the smaller colleges the Nevadans were able to hold their own and were again crowned champions of the smaller colleges.

All through the season the Wolves received the tough breaks, especially in the last game with Saint Marys. All primed to win by a large score, the Nevada eleven went to California and were forced to play on a field of mud. The game ended in a 10-10 tie but every newspaper expert on the Coast conceded that Nevada was by far the better team.

The brightest spot in the 1923 record is the 0-0 tie which the Wolves administered the California Varsity. Given only an outside chance to score, the Wolves fought the Bears off their feet and not only tied them but outplayed them throughout.

It would be difficult to pick out stars for the season as one of the characteristics of the 1923 eleven was its excellent team work both in defense and offense. If one man were to be selected as "the star", however, Captain "Chet" Scranton should have the title. Throughout the season the skipper played the same consistent good game.

Coaches Courtright and Shaw are to be congratulated upon the showing of the 1923 Nevada football team. They produced the only team which has held the Golden Bear scoreless for the past four years.

"CORKY" COURTRIGHT

WITH the termination of the 1923 season, Corky Courtright completed his fifth season at the University of Nevada. In the five years he has been here he has built up an enviable record and his teams rank high in Pacific Coast football. Under his direction the Wolf Pack has piled up a total of 993 points to opponents' 464 in five seasons. In that time Nevada has won 23 games, lost 12 and tied 7.

"BUCK" SHAW

BUCK SHAW, All-American tackle from Notre Dame, completed his second year as line coach at Nevada with the close of the 1923 season. His work with the line is largely responsible for the success of the 1923 Varsity. Until this year Nevada never had a very strong line. This year, thanks to "Buck", she developed a line that could take the most desperate onslaught of the heavy California line and like it. More than that, Nevada's line pushed the Bears back almost at will.

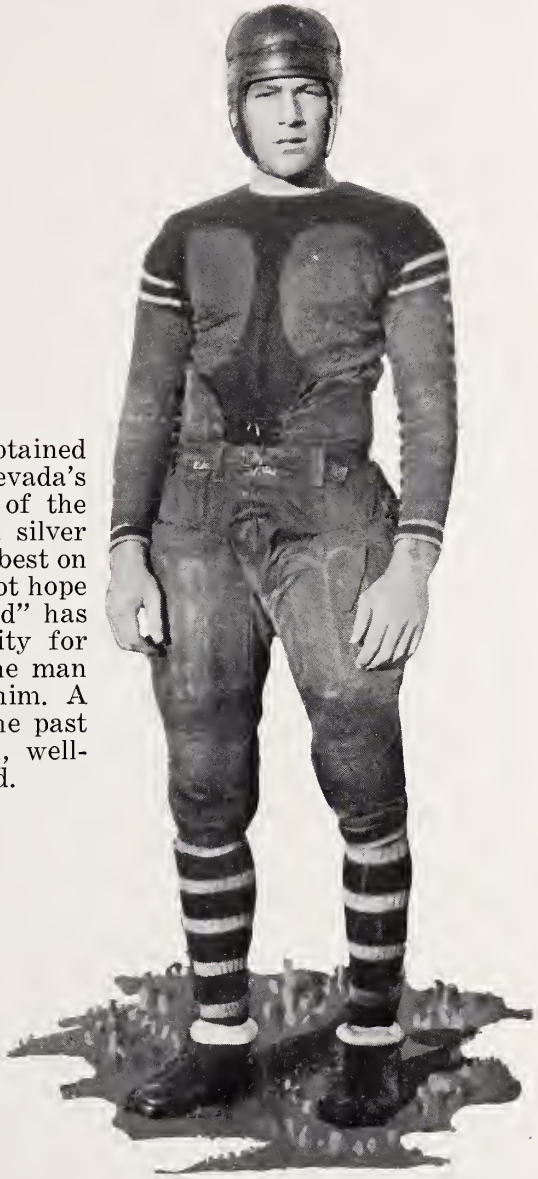

"CHET" SCRANTON

NO man ever deserved the title of "best all-round man on the Varsity" more than its captain "Chet" Scranton. Playing his fourth year of Varsity football, Scranton was the most experienced, versatile and consistent man on the eleven. In offense or defense, in any department of the game Scranton could always be depended upon. He was equally as valuable as an open field runner or a line plunger. He was good on either end of a pass. He was a sure, hard tackler in defense, and was never down until the whistle blew when he carried the ball.

"SPUD" HARRISON

THE 1924 Varsity will be captained by "Spud" Harrison, Nevada's fighting end. Surely one of the best ends who ever played in a silver and blue jersey, if not one of the best on the Coast, the Wolf Pack could not hope to secure a better leader. "Spud" has done the kicking for the Varsity for two years and has never met the man who could consistently out-kick him. A great deal of the success of the past season is due to the long, high, well-placed kicks of Nevada's left end.

COACH MARTIE

COACH MARTIE came to the University last fall to take over the position of physical director left vacant by "Doc" Clough. During the football season he acted in the capacity of trainer and assisted in coaching as well. He has had a great deal of experience in athletics in the middle west and coached Elko High School before coming here.

"BILLY" HUG

HIMSELF one of the most promising half backs ever playing for Nevada, now out of the game for good due to an injury to his knee, "Billy" Hug took the Freshmen in hand and developed one of the best Freshman teams Nevada has ever had. They defeated all comers and gave the Varsity some valuable scrimmages. Under "Billy's" grooming several men were moved up to the Varsity before the season was over.

"BARNEY" KEATING

BESIDES his duties as manager, "Barney" Keating took the "Goofs" in hand as their coach. He soon had a "Goof" squad that could give the Varsity the stiffest kind of workouts. It was "Barney's Goofs" that drilled the Varsity for a week preceding the Cal game in the plays that the Wolf Pack used to fool the Bears. Their faithful work scrimmaging the first squad and the fight instilled in them by "Barney" played a big part in the making of the team.

NEVADA 3—OLYMPIC CLUB 27

ON September 22 the powerful Olympic Club eleven came over the hump to tangle with the Wolves and when the game ended the Silver and Blue griders were trailing 27-3.

This game with the Winged O nearly wrecked all hopes for a team which would prove to the world that the University of Nevada was again on the football map. The Post Street eleven outweighed the men in Silver and Blue in physical bulk and the knowledge of the game. They used their weight to advantage and succeeded in putting a great majority of the Nevada first team on the sidelines with minor injuries. Al Lowry, "Corky's" best bet in the fullback position was injured so badly that he was unable to play again for three weeks.

The game started with Nevada in the lead when "Horse" Hobbs sent a 42 yard place kick between the crossbars for Nevada's only score. The Olympic team soon got under way, however, and succeeded in piling up 27 points in the remaining time.

WITH the Davis game came a new birth of spirit. "Beat 'em all, it's Nevada's year" came into being and the team showed a marked improvement over the previous week by taking the California Farm over for a 41-0 victory.

The game was fast and clean and the Wolves showed their superiority throughout. It was just a case of a superior team steamrolling its way over a weaker eleven. The entire team showed up well and the work of the line was especially good. Only once did the Farmers threaten and then it was not serious.

Al Lowry was not in the game and his place was taken by Monahan and Larson, the latter showing he had the makings of a star.

NEVADA STOPS STANFORD FOR NO GAIN

NEVADA 0—STANFORD 27

LEAVING Reno confident of a victory over the Cards, the Wolves met some serious opposition and were forced to take the 0 end of a 27-0 score. Those not present at the game would believe that the Wolves were outclassed, but never was a Stanford team forced to fight harder. The Wolves threatened all the time.

Stanford got the breaks and took advantage of them. Early in the game the ball was well into Nevada territory and Harrison was forced to boot. He tried hard to get his kick off but it was blocked. The Stanford center recovered behind the goal and a score was chalked up for the Red Shirts. A similar play resulted in another touchdown. The other two were earned legitimately and showed that the Stanford team was the best.

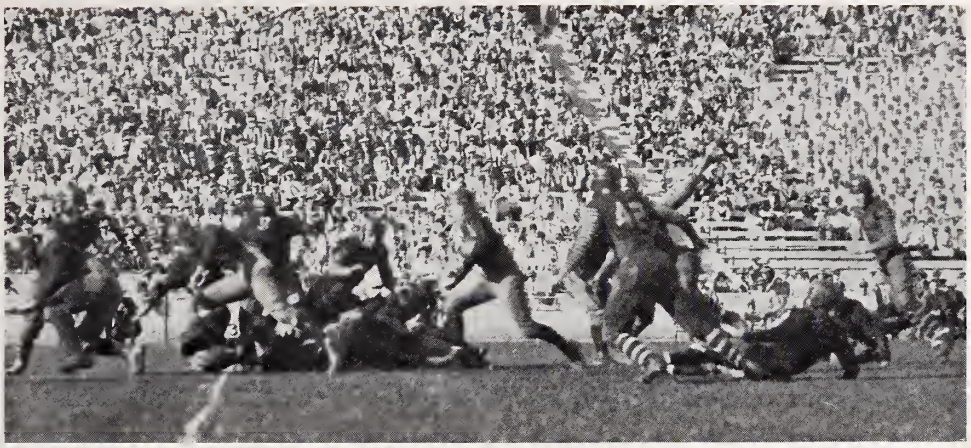

The spirit manifested at this game impressed the Stanford rooters so much that they stood and gave a skyrocket for the "Wolf Pack spirit." It was a victory in spite of the scoreboard. Nevada, through this game more than any other during the season, became known on the coast as having a team which fought hard against big odds.

PLAYING the fourth game of the season, October 13, the Nevada Wolf Pack went down before the U. S. C. Trojans 33-0. The game was full of thrills and only in the last half were the Trojans able to show their superiority. The heat of the Los Angeles climate sapped the strength of the Wolves and in the second half they were unable to stand up under the battering of the heavy U.S.C. team. Nevada went into the game hoping to duplicate the feat of last season and for the first half held the Trojan score to one touchdown. The heat then began to have its effect and the Trojans were able to put over several touchdowns. The Wolves displayed the same fight that characterized their game with Stanford.

ON the 27th of October, Homecoming Day, the Santa Clara varsity visited the Nevada campus and again the two teams played to a tie. Aside from one or two flashes, it was a slow game and was marked by very ragged playing on the part of both teams.

The Wolves made their only touchdown in the first five minutes of play. They worked the ball up the field by a series of linebucks and finally, getting within scoring distance, a line smash put it over.

Nevada was handicapped by the loss of Captain Scranton who had been injured in the game with the University of Southern California. The team seemed lost without him in the game and were unable to get started.

After the touchdown by Nevada, the Bronchos rallied and held the Wolves on even terms until Nevada tried a weak side forward pass. McKee, Santa

The game then settled down to a very mediocre struggle which brought out plenty of ragged football. It was without a doubt the poorest game of the season probably because both teams were stale. Had Nevada played up to her early season form there would have been no question as to the winner.

The game took placce on the second day of Nevada's Homecoming celebration and was witnessed by a large number of old graduates.

CONCEDED only a small chance of scoring and not one in a million of defeating the Golden Bear, the Wolves fought California through forty minutes of spectacular football to a 0-0 tie. Arriving at California Field, the Wolves learned that the "big game" of the day was between the California and U. S. C. Freshmen. The Nevada game was to be nothing more than a slight workout for the Varsity. Let it be said right here and now—THEY GOT IT. The quarters of the Varsity game were shortened to ten minutes. This partly accounts for the tie score. At the end of the first half the Bears were fighting with their backs to the wall. Had the half lasted five minutes more the Nevada Varsity would have scored on the so-called impregnable California Bear. Again at the end of the game the Bears were forced to the utmost to keep their goal line clear.

The first half started with California playing her usual defensive game. The first quarter resolved itself into a kicking battle between Witter and "Spud" Harrison. In the second quarter the Nevadans opened up and from that time on had the California players, coaches and rooting section praying "Hold 'em California."

Three times Nevada threatened to score but each time was cheated by a break. Gutteron tried twice for drop kicks but both fell short. The third time "Pots" Clark got through for what seemed a sure touchdown when Dixon saved the Bear's hide by a timely tackle.

California only came near scoring once late in the third quarter. After working the ball to Nevada's twenty yard line, Bill Blewett was rushed into the game to kick. "Spud" Harrison blocked it and California's only chance to score had come and gone.

True enough, California's entire team was not in action but had every man been in his accustomed place the score would not have been a bit different. The Wolves were out to upset the dope and they succeeded.

NEVADA DRIVES FOR TOUCHDOWN

NEVADA 46—FRESNO STATE 3

THE Fresno Bulldogs invaded the Nevada campus on November tenth with the record of winning all the games played for the past three seasons. Nevada was first to break that record and although unable to hold them scoreless, clearly demonstrated her superiority by handing them a 46 to 3 defeat.

Nevada was never in danger of being beaten nor was she in danger of being scored upon as long as the first team remained in the game. But when "Corky" sent in the second team the Teachers started an offensive which ended in a drop kick.

"Pots" Clark was the sensation of the day with two long runs, each resulting in a touchdown. His first was for seventy-five yards and his final effort of the afternoon resulted in an eighty-five yard gain.

The Bulldogs showed a tendency to fight the hardest when the going was the roughest and several times held the Wolves for four downs on their 1-yard line. Nevada's second string was in the entire second half.

ST. MARYS 10

PLAYING in a drizzle of rain which made the field more slippery every minute, the Wolves and the St. Mary's Saints battled on uneven terms through forty minutes of football to a 10-10 tie.

Although outplaying the Saints through three of the four quarters, the Nevadans were unable to get more than a tie out of the melee. Not being used to a mud field, the Wolves fumbled the slippery ball just when a touchdown seemed imminent. On six occasions, after the ball had been worked to within scoring distance, one of the Wolf backs fumbled and chances for a score disappeared.

Soon after the start of the game the Nevadans took the lead. Late in the third period St. Marys set up a 10-7 lead. Hobbs with a beautiful place kick evened things up and they remained so until the end.

In this game the Wolves made eighteen first downs while the Saints made only three and yet the score ended in a tie. The experts of the Coast were there to see whether or not the California game was just a flash in the pan and found that it was not. Nevada had a team which knew football and played it all the time, as the St. Marys game proved.

Thus ended one of the most successful seasons Nevada has ever had. Not in number of games won, or in the number of points scored on opponents, but in the fight, good sportsmanship and spirit of the team and the University.

The new spirit ushered in by the slogan, "Beat 'em all, It's Nevada's Year" had no little effect on the team and the season. The result of this new spirit culminated in the history making game the Wolfpack put up at California. That spirit is here to stay. Next season and the seasons to follow will see just as successful elevens for from now on they are all "Nevada's years".

BASKETBALL FOREWORD

THE basketball displayed by the teams at the University of Nevada has been far below the standard set by that of 1922 until the past season. The first year after that team broke up the Wolves were able to do little in the way of winning games. The following year was little better due probably to the lack of material. There were not enough men of varsity caliber to make up a team. This year it was vastly different.

At the beginning of the season Coach Courtright turned over the first squad to J. E. Martie. The prospects for a good team were decidedly brightened by the appearance of several big men who had had a lot of experience in the court game. With these men Coach Martie turned out a team which made a name for itself.

Martie introduced a system which proved to be a sensation wherever it went. Nevada's offense was one of the best on the coast and the Wolves had little difficulty in piercing the best five man defense that their opponents could offer.

Coach Martie changed several of the men to different positions and the combination which he used proved to be the best he could have arranged. "Spud" Harrison was changed from the back guard position to center and after he got used to the position he showed that he was as good in the pivot position as he was in the stationary post last year. Hobbs was changed to the running guard position and proved that it was the place for him.

The team did not reach their top form until the first California trip and after that they went their best up until the final game. During the coast trip they held the California Bears to close games and proved that the Nevada basketball team was again to be reckoned among the best.

The team, although not winning a great number of games, won from some of the best teams on the coast. With the majority of the team returning next year things look very bright and it is not at all impossible that the University of Nevada may be again represented at the National Tournament in 1925.

CAPTAIN FREDERICK

Playing his third year of basketball, the 1924 season found the varsity captain in better form than ever before. He was not only a good shot but his floor work and passing were outstanding features of his playing and contributed greatly to the success of the team. His experience and individual ability made him the logical man for the captaincy and his fight and enthusiasm permeated the entire team.

COACH MARTIE

Coming to Nevada last fall to take the place of "Doc" Clough as instructor of Physical Education, Coach Martie filled a valuable place during the football season and when basketball season started, Coach Courtright turned the squad over to him as head coach. Martie has had a great deal of basketball experience himself as well as experience as coach. He was coach of the Elko High school before coming to the University and turned out some very creditable teams. The offensive which he perfected in the Nevada five pierced the defense of the best teams of the coast.

THE SEASON

SAINT MARY'S again opened the basketball season at Nevada and proved that she still had a well trained team when she defeated the Wolves in two games by scores of 32-21 and 30-20. The Wolves showed plainly that they were not used to their new system and the Saints took advantage of their inexperience to pile up good leads. Nevada's occasional flashes of form, however, showed the fans that the squad had great possibilities.

The week before the California trip the Wolves met the Northwestern Athletic Club team winning by a 45-16 score. This game demonstrated that some of the rough spots had been polished off and the team began to look like a real five.

Nevada's invasion of the coast proved rather disastrous. The Wolves lost all four games but in so doing proved that they could stand up with the best. They held the Bears, Pacific Coast Conference champions, well in check until the final minutes of both games. In the first game Harrison was taken out on personal fouls with only four minutes to go and the score nearly even. The Bears piled up twenty points and won 51-31. In the second game both teams played a defensive game. The Bears proved to be the best defensive team and won 24-18.

Returning from this trip Nevada opened a two game series with the Davis Aggies on February 15. In the first game the Wolves tired in the second half and allowed the Aggies to overcome their lead and nose them out 15-14. Nevada came back in the second game and displayed the best form of the season. Their offense was the fastest seen on the Nevada floor since the days of the "Big Five." It was a close, fast game and the gun found the score Nevada 24, Davis 23.

Santa Clara was the next opponent and Nevada had little difficulty in defeating her in two games. In both games the Wolves started with an offensive which quickly piled up a good lead leaving the Saints hopelessly behind. They won the first game 33-17, and the second 30-20.

The next week end found the Wolves at the height of their form to meet the Saint Ignatius five. Coming to Reno with a big reputation and a record of having lost but one game, it proved the best team the Wolves met during the season. The Wolves rose to the occasion and won twice in two of the fastest, hardest fought games seen on Nevada's court. In the first game Nevada started out in the lead and held it throughout the entire game winning by a score of 29-25. The Ignatians came back the second night determined to win. They adopted rough tactics and took the lead at the first of the game holding it until the beginning of the second half. In the second half the Wolves played them off their feet and won the game by a brilliant offensive in the last few minutes of play. The score was 25-22.

"BILL" GOODALE
Forward

The second California invasion resulted in two defeats at the hands of Saint Mary's and Saint Ignatius. The game with Saint Mary's proved to be a Jonah and the Wolves never came close to winning. The end of the game found Nevada on the short end of a 32-22 score.

The Saint Ignatius game was close, the two teams being very evenly matched. The small floor was a decided handicap to Nevada. The Saints succeeded in netting two baskets in the last minutes of play and won 22-18.

The final game of the season was scheduled with the Los Angeles Blues. Due to a misunderstanding the team which played was not the Blue Team but a team known as The Los Angeles City Blues. It was a remnant of the team that went to the tournament in 1922 but was not in any way comparable to that team.

The Wolves started out fast and it was not long until the result of the game was settled. Nevada easily outclassed the Los Angeles five winning 36-18.

Reviewing the season we may predict that although more games were lost than won, the Wolves possessed a team this season whose playing promises to make a name for Nevada in Pacific Coast basketball circles during the coming seasons.

Frederick, Harrison, Hainer, and Goodale, or four out of the five regular players of this season, will be back in suits for the '25 season. Hobbs is the only regular who will be lost through graduation. This is a serious loss, however, as Hobbs was one of the key men on this year's varsity.

"CHET" SCRANTON

The loss of Hobbs, Scranton and Monahan from the squad will be partially offset by the fact that Randall, a two-year letter man, Agrusa, and Underwood will all return. With this material around which to build, together with the incoming new material, the coach should be able to put out a team next season that will give the best the coast has to offer plenty of trouble.

In April, Coach Martie sent out a call for all the 1924 basketball squad, as well as all those who wished to go out for the 1925 squad, to appear for Spring practice. By inaugurating this system, the coach intends to drill the men in his style of play so that they will not have to spend so much time next season in learning the rudiments of the game, but can devote their time to perfecting their shooting and team work.

1923 TRACK TEAM

EVER since the spring of 1916 the track season at the University of Nevada has never been very successful. Unable to get any kind of competition the Wolf track stars have had to satisfy themselves with one meet a year with the Davies Aggies. Due to this fact the interest which usually follows track has been lacking on the University of Nevada campus. Then too, up until the last few years the Wolves have not had more than one or two real track stars and this also has gone to put the damper on track. '23 however was different.

Early in the season rumors went around that there was a man who could run the hundred in 10 flat and the two twenty in close to record time. For a while this was nothing more than rumor but on the day of the inter-class meet "Bill" Nesbit stepped the hundred in 10 flat and the furlong in 23 thereby tying the long standing record set by "Tex" Stever way back in '15. This all went to brighten the spirits of the tracksters.

The coaches and men worked hard to get into condition for the Davis meet and when the day rolled around they were in perfect shape. They went to Davis and were defeated. It was again the same old story—lack of material.

This year however, the track schedule provides for three or four meets, one with the California Bears, three times winners of the I. C. A. A. A. A. championship. More and better material is turning out for track this year than ever before and things begin to take on a rosy hue and the chances that track will take its rightful place as a major sport seem to be very encouraging.

If the Nevada Varsity track team can go through this season in good shape it seems more than a mere possibility that track will again be set on a firm basis at the University of Nevada.

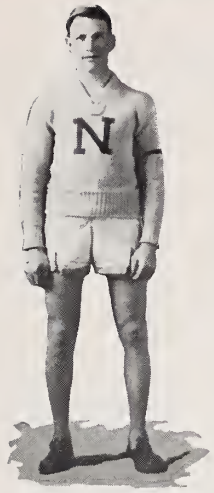

CAPTAIN COTTER

"Duke" Cotter was captain of the 1922 track team, and was re-elected as captain last year showing that the team had a great deal of confidence in him. Cotter is a consistent man on the hurdles and a sure point getter in his event. He tied the record for the high hurdles two years ago. He was expected to break the record last season but an untimely injury to his knee ruined any prospects in that line. He handed a team on to "Babe" Carlson that has the making of the best team ever turned out at Nevada.

CAPTAIN-ELECT CARLSON

Nevada's star weight man, "Babe" Carlson, was elected to captain the 1924 track team. "Babe" won his letter in 1922 and broke the Nevada record last year in the meet with the Davies Aggies. He is out to do even greater things this season. The skipper-elect has the build and with the experience he has acquired in the last three seasons he should surprise track followers in both the discus and shot events this year.

"SPUD" HARRISON

THE DAVIS-NEVADA MEET

THE track season of 1923 consisted of only one inter-collegiate meet and this was with the Davis Aggies at Davis. Although Nevada lost, the showing made by the Wolf tracksters was far from disastrous and gave promise of a good team for the '24 season.

On May 7, 1923, twenty men composing the University of Nevada track team left for Davis and when they got there gave the Aggie track stars a big surprise when they piled up a total of 33½ points to Davis' 11½ in the first five events. The Farmers came right back however, and due to the failure of the Wolves to get any seconds and thirds were able to overcome the lead set up by the Nevada team and win the meet 73½-58½.

LEE LYON

Many long standing records were smashed and the relay record which has stood for many years came within a fraction of being bettered. Due to a misunderstanding in the time set by the old relay team the one of '23 returned to Nevada firm in the belief that they had shattered the record. "Bill" Nesbit clipped one second off the two-twenty record when he was timed 22 flat in the furlong. Peart lowered the record in the half from 2:03 to 2:02:2. "Babe" Carlson, captain-elect, took second place in the shot with a heave of 41 feet 11 inches and in so doing added 11 inches to the Nevada shot-put record.

"BILL" DOWNEY

The meet started with Nesbit running away from the field in the hundred and taking a first place, Bogart of Davis placed second and Larson and the Davis man, after a gruelling race tied for third. Nesbit also took first in the two-twenty with Bogart again trailing him, this time Larson succeeded in distancing the Davis man for third.

Peart took the 440 with Davis second and Bill Downey, Nevada third. Peart also took the 880 with Strickland, Nevada, second and Davis third.

"BILL" NESBIT

The mile went to Nevada with Koehler leading the field and Hobbs trailing for second and the Davis man third. From this point on Nevada's firsts were few.

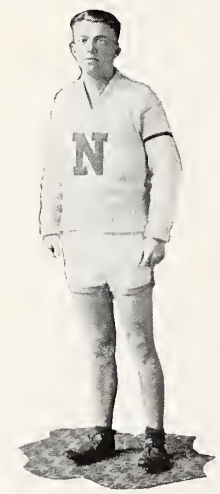

Davis took first and second in both hurdle races with Nevada pulling hard for a poor third.

The field events went to Davis by a large margin. They took first and third in the shot, second in the discus, first and second in the high jump, third in broad jump, all three places in the pole vault and all three places in the javelin.

"JIMMY" KOEHLER

The final race, the relay, was the best event of the day. Downey, Nevada's start man, handed a ten yard lead to Lyons who added another five yards and passed it on to Hobbs who also added five yards to the lead. Peart was the last man to go and his was the prettiest race of the relay. He started with the twenty yard lead given him by his teammates and held it for the first seventy yards. When about 150 yards from the finish line he put on a burst of speed which surprised everyone on the field and broke the tape a good forty yards ahead of his opponent.

"PERC" KETELSON

While Nevada lost, several finds were uncovered and the meet supplied information to both the coaches and men which will no doubt prove of value to them in '24.

The prospects for the 1924 track season as forecast by the 1923 season are very promising. Two men who broke records last year are back for the meets this spring. A schedule has been arranged that is extensive enough to hold out some inducement for track material to go out for the sport. Track, although a major sport, has never had the support it should have been given at Nevada. The more ambitious schedule and a longer semester will help to put the sport back on the basis it deserves.

FACULTY ENDS OLD SYSTEM OF FINALS

Final examinations were done away with by the faculty at their regular meeting yesterday afternoon. According to the new ruling, the last week ... with the order of business ...

1. The way for a new frosh NOT to start on his college career, unless he has over-size lung capacity and enjoys aquatic sports.

Saunter casually up the front steps off Morrill Hall, wearing a senior sombrero, and stopping to chat with every girl you meet. Go out the back door, cut across the grass to the library, and light a cigarette. Then sit down on the Senior Bench, whistle "Nearer My God to Thee," and wait for the fireworks.

* * * * * * * *

2. What courses will the new student take? Here's a list of some of the best. If you want to take any of these courses be sure not to put them on your program. The Dean always changes your program around until it is as different as possible from the one you started with.

STEAM-FITTING 99—A pipe course. ?

EXPRESSION 777—If you can open your mouth and throw yourself into it you should register either in this class or else in Tumbling 23.

SPANISH 13—A "bully" course, going into detail concerning all the fine points of the Spanish national athletic game.

GREEK 1, 2, 3, and etc. up to 100—This course is essential if you want to be able to tell the names of the fraternities from the name of the guy that shines your shoes.

MINING 57 (Gold Digging)—For the co-eds. A non-collapsable dumbell goes as a prize to any Co-ed who does not know more about this course than the professor.

* * * * * * * *

3. Your college education is not complete until you have read the following masterpieces of English literature.

THE FATAL SLIP by D. Linck.
THE POOR STUDENT by Willie Pass.
WORLD CONDITIONS AS I SEE THEM by Ben Turpin.
THE NAUGHTY CHINAMAN by Eye Sin.
THE MAN WHO CAME BACK by Still.
THE HARD WORKING MEXICAN by Manuel Labor.
THE WRONG SUIT by the eminent bridge authority, Miss Fitt.

CASPER WRITES

Dear Mister Editor,

Well I don't know why you should ask me to write a letter to you and tell you what I think about the University unless it is because I guess I am about the most popular fella in the Freshman class. Anyway that is what my girl tells me, and Maw says she can tell that I am the most prominent fella in school by the letters I write her.

Aren't mothers funny though? Last winter I wrote home and told her I was learning to play hockey, and she wrote back and told me she wished I wouldn't learn to play no more gamboling games, and that if I had to play cards why didn't I learn how to play some good game like casino or authors.

I like some of the men that go to school here, and also some of the fellas from California. Of course, I know that some of them don't think much of me, as they accuse me of being so dumb that I think Mah Jongg is the name of somebuddy's mother. But anyway, I'm not as bad as the absent-minded professor who stood his wife up in the corner and kissed his umbrela good night.

Upper-classmen make me mad sometimes. The sophomores made me awfully sore the other day when they paddled me for not answering the phone quick enough. The reason I didn't answer it was because nobody ever calls me up and so I thought it would probably be for some of them. Anyway, now I know why they call college fellas Raw Raw boys.

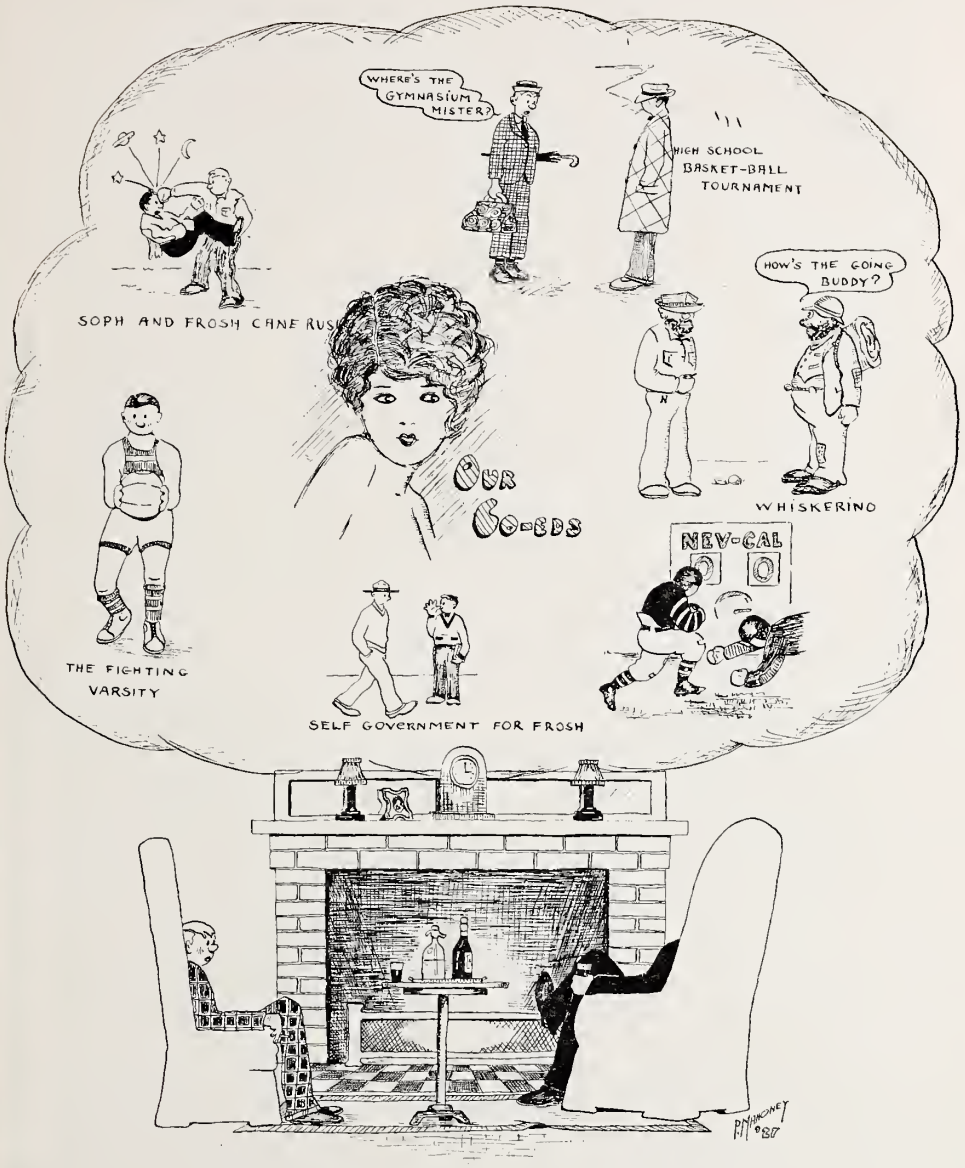

As for the fraternities here, why I think I like the sorrorities better. Anyway, I think I would rather belong to that deer hunting club called the Buck Grabbers.

Well I hope you have good luck with your annual, Mr. Editor. If you need any more help just call on me. I am sort of literarily inclined, myself, and am interested in all the college publications. I read the Sagebrush every time they send me a copy, and I think that the Desert Wolf is in some respects, the best university magazine at Nevada.

I am

Simply,

CASPER.

As We Look Back

A MODEL EXAMINATION

Printed as a helpful hint to the Profs. The questions are of the type such as can be asked only by a University of Nevada professor.

I. How long is a piece of string? If so, why not?

II. How many words are there in the dictionary? Name them. What do they mean?

III. Do you believe in love at first sight? Draw a diagram illustrating.

IV. What is the square root of Shakespeare's "As You Like It?"

V. On which side of a river is the bank?

VI. How many fraternities are there in the Greek alphabet? (Answer yes or no).

VII. What were Cleopatra's dates. Who were they with?

VIII. Who's sorry now?

The method of grading the examination papers, according to the rules set forth by the grading committee, is as follows: Divide the papers into neat piles of the percentages named by the committee. Then shuffle and throw into the air. Those that light on their face should be given a 4, and all that light on their back a 5. Those that stand on edge receive 2, and a 1 should be given to all papers that stick to the ceiling.

* * * * * * * * *

BUGHOUSE FABLES

"I know that it is ony ten o'clock and that this is a one o'clock night. But let's go home anyway, Jack. I always like to be the first one in."

* * * *

"Naw, fellas, let's wait ten minutes more. We've only waited fifteen minutes, and I think the Prof. wants to give up an ex today."

* * * *

"No thanks. I have some cigarettes of my own. All I want is a match.

* * * *

"No, Marion, you can't have any more kisses tonight. I'm afraid Miss Mack wouldn't like it, and besides I think you've had enough."

* * * *

"On account of the dance last night, there won't be any class today. * * * * * Of course, you haven't handed in any themes this semester, Mr. Smith, but if you think your mark is too low, why I'll change it from three to one."

* * * *

"So I took the $50,000 and paid off all my debts."

SHOES OF WORTH

The initials of a friend

You will find these letters on many tools by which electricity works. They are on great generators used by electric light and power companies; and on lamps that light millions of homes.

They are on big motors that pull railway trains; and on tiny motors that make hard housework easy.

By such tools electricity dispels the dark and lifts heavy burdens from human shoulders. Hence the letters G-E are more than a trademark. They are an emblem of service—the initials of a friend.

GENERAL ELECTRIC

THE WALLFLOWER

What a wonderful party! And everyone was having such a good time; everyone except—the wallflower, who sat in the corner, and was all alone.

The others danced, and joked, and laughed, and danced some more.

The wallflower sat sadly alone, number ten hoisted up on the bench opposite, blowing smoke rings out towards the dancers.

"Dammit all, why don't some of them janes ask me to dance? I don't think I like these leap year dances."

COLES PHILLIPS FOR THIS

I hate to say it just because
It sounds so mean and shocking:
But nature beat you, Santa Claus,

A CONFESSION

It wasn't a woman that got me,
Not booze, not cards, not dice,
Nor gambling, nor dope, nor night life—
Not one of them could entice.
What started me to the gutter,
What made me sound the depths
Was a little stretch of ice
On the top of a flight of steps.

CRANE BEAUTY IN THE OPEN ; CRANE QUALITY IN ALL HIDDEN FITTINGS

As individual character and beauty are valued more and more in the design and equipment of bathrooms in fine town and country houses, the creation of distinctive appointments keeps pace with this desire for the unusual.

In the Crane bathroom pictured here, the "Marmor" lavatory and dressing table are of exceptional size, 52 by 25 inches. They are of white statuary marble, upheld on crystal standards. Behind the triple mirrors, framed in gray green and old gold, with bevel edges, medicine cabinets are concealed.

The "Tarnia" tub, generously large, is encased in Rookwood faience tiles of the same lustrous gray pearl as the walls. The base and decorations repeat the rich black of the floor tiles. The shower is enclosed in plate glass; its base is a white porcelain unit. The towel racks are heated. Opposite the fireplace, a bronze grille masks the radiator.

S.A.E. brother (after a strenuous initiation): And now I'll give you the grip.

Trembling Initiate: Aw please don't. I've got a cold now as it is.

Vital problems of the day number one: The race problem—Who will win the track meet?

ONLY TOO TRUE

Those who say that every girl's ambition is to be an actress are wrong: Every girl is an actress.

My girl is so dumb that she thinks the R. O. T. C. is a body of water.

No, Hiawatha, the Federal Board is not a piece of lumber belonging to the U. S. Government.

THE MINERAL SUFFERS

Waiter: Hey, hey, what are you doing with those teaspoons in your pocket?

Lawrence Quill: Doctor's orders.

Waiter: How come doctor's orders?

Lawrence Quill: He told me to take two teaspoons after every meal.

THEN THEY PLAYED THE OTHER ONE

Prof. Kent (directing the band) We will now play, "Yes We Have No Bananas."

Drummer: Aw hell, I played that last time.

AT THE GLEE

"Take my tip old man and don't drink any punch. I've had eight glasses and they're rotten."

"Go West, Young Man, Go West"

said Horace Greeley, and his trite saying has come to signify "Seek the Land of Opportunity." The famous editor is long since deceased but Opportunity still lives. Just now, Mason Valley, Nevada, is "West" and offers great inducement to energetic Youth.

DODGE BROTHERS
TYPE-B SEDAN

The Type-B Sedan could well stand as a concrete symbol of everything the name Dodge Brothers itself has come to represent.

It is honestly and wisely built. It stands up under the sternest kind of service. It will serve long beyond the span of life usually allotted to a motor car.

DESIRED INFORMATION

Johnny Gottardi was giving a lecture to the faculty, describing some of the sights he had seen during his trip through Mexico.

"There are some spectacles," he said, "that one never forgets."

"I wish you would tell me where I can get a pair," exclaimed Prof. Hill. "I'm always forgetting mine."

PRETTY SLICK

Ned Martin: Did that frosh succeed in shoveling all that snow and ice off the pavement?

Al Harris: No, he fell down on the job.

OH SHOOT!

Sgt. Vaughn (on rifle range): How the devil have you made four straight hits? Your range is 1000 yards and your sight is set at 600.

Geo. Fairbrother: See that little stone about half-way up there? Well, I'm banking 'em off that.

The Truckee River Power Company serves over 30,000 customers with Light, Power, Gas and Water.

Electric power is developed from five hydro-electric power plants situated along the Truckee River. These five plants have a capacity of 11,800 H.P. Three hundred and sixty miles of pole lines distribute power to Reno, Sparks, Virginia City, Carson City, Gardnerville, Minden, and Yerington.

Water, in abundance is supplied to the cities of Reno and Sparks. It comes from the high Sierra Nevada Mountains, which insures the water being cool, clear and pure.

Gas is manufactured from crude oil and distributed by means of high pressure pipe lines to all parts of Reno and Sparks. The storage capacity of the gas plant is large, which insures a large supply for all classes of consumers.

Three Chinese laundrymen there were
Who toiled the livelong day,
Till one broke down from overwork
And went insane, they say.

His yellow brethren deemed it wise
To take him down the track,
And put him in a mad house
Until his wits came back.

A fast express roared by just then
And through the trio cut;
That evening on the tracks were found
Two washers and a nut.

ALL BY OURSELVES

Last night my Room-mate and I
Went to a show
Down town and sat
In the second balcony.
Just before
The first act
Started we saw
Peggy and Gertrude,
Two classy looking
Girls that we know,
And they were sitting
Back of us. Oh,
Murder! It was only two Weeks ago that we
Spent sixteen perfectly
Good dollars to take
That pair of janes
Into the best box
Seats in the house!

AFTER THE PROM

AS TOLD IN 1874

Went to the Junior Prom last night and had a very good time. Met an ideal girl. By Jove, she was lovely. Eyes like a sky in June and reflections in them like a deep pool. Had the funniest feeling down my spine when she looked at me. Asked her if I could call, and she said "yes" with the most dazzling smile I have ever seen.

AS TOLD IN 1924

Dragged out to the Junior Hop the other night and most of this morning and met a mean woman. Oh, boy! Could she shake a wicked foot? Can a lion chew? She certainly is easy on sore eyes. And maybe she doesn't know her stuff. Can't remember her so clearly on account of the fog. Am going to call this mama up soon and get a Sunday dinner date.

LOVE SONG OF A LUNATIC

There's not a spider in the sky,
There's not a glowworm in the sea,
There's not a crab that soars on high,

SUSPENDED CLIMAX

The surging mob in the streets below the great hotel suddenly became very quiet—as quiet as the great forests at noon. Every face turned upward to the twelfth story where the figure of a man could be seen standing expectantly on the edge of a window sill.

"Look out, down there," he screamed. The mob pushed back frantically until a space was cleared on the sidewalk immediately below the small figure swaying on the window sill. A few women fainted. Pandemonium reigned while the man leaned far out from the building—and spat.

A GREAT LIGHT

The skipper was examining an ambitious gob who wanted to be a gunner's mate.

"How much does a six-pound shell weigh," he asked.

"I don't know," the gob confessed.

"Well, what time does the twelve o'clock train leave?"

"Twelve o'clock."

"All right then, how much does a six-pound shell weigh?"

"Ah," said the youthful mariner, a great light dawning on him, "Twelve pounds."

Mobs of frosh; posters; water carnival; lakeings; cane rush; lost trunks; no taxis; long lines; dinks; awe of sombreros; home-sickness; a baby stare; bawled up programs; the angry dean; the terrible sophs; cute girls; mere men; conflicts; cuts; cinches; dances; games; broke. Beginning of first semester.

Chaos; confusion on top of chaos; noise; lost articles; loud mutterings; babblings; roars; mob seething; pushing; struggling; the last words with the little woman; a silent goodbye and a good frat pin thrown away; silence; impatient waiting; seeth, pushing, struggling; a whistle, a roar; a grinding of brakes; the climb on the train; off for vacation. The end of a hectic year.

OF COURSE

Our class once
Had a meeting
And we were all there
On time and everybody
Got quiet immediately
And business was attended to
Without delay or confusion.
The treasurer announced that
Each member would be taxed 2.50
Whereby everybody immediately
Brought forth the required amount
And this happening
Surprised me greatly
It was too good to be true.
It was not, as
I was dreaming.
